Speakers

Alan Scott
Partner
Deloitte Growth Solutions

Alan will discuss issues in responding to the change in the economic conditions, organisations are looking to a deeper appreciation of their end-to-end Supply Chain to identify and deliver business opportunities. This incorporates both reactive steps to protect the business, as well as differentiating the organisation's value proposition in the eyes of their customers and targets.

Deloitte have been working with clients through the Deloitte Managing in Volatile Times framework to identify, plan and execute Supply Chain opportunities. Alan Scott, a Partner in Deloitte Private, will discuss Deloitte's perspectives on incorporating the Supply Chain in pursuing success in these economic times.

James McIntosh
Manufacturing Specialist
QMI Solutions

James will discuss SCOR, the Supply Chain Scoring process for streamlining and improving Supply Chain performance. James will also briefly mention Federal and State Government funding for business improvements to Queensland companies.

Manufacturing Specialist
QMI Solutions

QMI
SOLUTIONS

James McIntosh is a professional manufacturing engineer with wide-ranging experience in the Australian automotive Supply Chain over more than a decade. He has worked for Parts and Accessory manufacturers, Tier 1 suppliers and at the Vehicle Assembly Plant level. He has extensively practiced Lean and other World Class Manufacturing practices like production system design, continuous improvement and Kaizen blitz interventions. Having since applied these and other tools across many industry types means that James is able to understand your issues and adapt solutions appropriately. Experience has taught James that once a company has its own process stabilised, Supply Chain issues determine success or failure.

James is a Manufacturing Specialist with QMI Solutions, an organisation dedicated to helping industry on the journey to manufacturing excellence through research, education, and implementation of world class practices and technologies. QMI Solutions is recognised as Australia's premier 'technology diffusion agency', and has been improving the uptake of the latest practices and technologies by industry since 1993.

He is heavily involved with advancing the state of industry, having served on the leadership team for the Supply Chain Council's ANZ chapter since 2006 and is very active in the Association for Manufacturing Excellence Queensland chapter.
